Feminine Faith (The Chasidic Heritage Series)

Synopsis

Feminine Faith traces the roots of the feminine within the supernal realms, and explores its relationship to women and how it translates into their aversion for unholy and ungodly worship. When the Jews served the golden calf during their sojourn in the wilderness, says the Midrash, the women refused to join them. Why are women more sensitive than men to G-d's role in earthly events and His mastery over creation? In this discourse, Rabbi Shmuel Schneersohn, fourth leader of Chabad Lubavitch (1834-1882), explores G-d's unity and immanence in the world, and the innate sensitivity that woman posses to spirituality.

Rabbi Shais Taub has translated an amazing maamer from the 4th Lubavitcher Rebbe on the mystical concepts on Rosh Chodesh [the new month], feminine roots in Chassidus, and the sin of the Golden Calf. This chassidic discourse will change the way you look at the origins of idolatry, the Golden Calf, and the feminine aspects of Hashem. Makes a wonderful gift or addition to your library.
