Ibn Rajab's Refutation Of Those Who Do Not Follow The Four Schools

Synopsis

Ibn Rajab's essay Refutation of Those Who Do Not Follow the Four Schools advocates for the necessity of following Islamic scholarship in general, and legal scholarship in particular. A large portion of the essay covers the history of the development of Islamic scholarship and how the Muslim Community came to recognize scholars as the source for authoritative knowledge. Readers of the essay will notice that Ibn Rajab is engaging individuals who saw themselves as equal or superior to prior generations of scholars, free to cast aside scholarship and to reinterpret without any need for requisite skills and knowledge. Although written seven centuries ago, it might as well have been written with today's reformers in mind.

This book is a beautiful refutation of those who attempt to discredit the Madhāhib and the people who claim to follow the Madhāhib whilst attacking the scholars associated. This is definitely something that every student of Fiqh MUST have in their library, as well as any laymen interested in knowledge.

Amazing and so timely it could have been written yesterday, because the defects of the souls who lead one to leave the schools and search to attract the attention on oneself is a timeless affair. It's a book which should be on every student of knowledge's shelf and the best argumentation to this day about this issue. It tackles as well the issue of pseudo-following a school while in reality claiming in practice to be an independent thinker. The translation is great as well as the benchmarking and the biographies help a lot to situate all the people Ibn Rajab speaks about;
