So far seems pretty good. I'm curious to the comment before me that states 'She didn't steal any of her knowledge from anyone'. There is an underlying context here that should be exposed on for the benefit of other readers. The contents of Daliah's book focuses on the 52 day periods, 7 per year solely as the yearly influences. The interpretations of certain cards such as 9 of Spades and Ace of Spades throughout the planetary influences do seem overtly downers and negative and I take it that is how Olney H Richmond also probably presented them in his revelatory book. Death is a transition, transformation, as the author points out. Daliah also points out that she doesn't predict death with the cards. I can see her point with the predictions. I suppose reading after the fact and understanding is a mature way to understand. I personally have seen physical death come along with an Ace of Spades, but there are 99% times it shows up with no death. You only die once in this life and those close to you (including animals) the same. I've heard elsewhere that many times a 5 will appear with physical death as moving on / travelling on or etc. It means different things to different people according to their paradigm and how they experience death or any experience in life. Ace of Spades means delving into the mysteries of life when it shows up for me and transforming in some fashion be it small or big internally which usually is evidenced externally to those closest to me. But, this should fascinate most of you ... My father passed in 2010 and he had an Ace of Spades in his 52 day period (which floored me; died at 80 and in his Uranus 52 day period and the Ace of Spades was his card for that period).
